Coming home to a fridge full of healthy nutritious, fruits, veggies, dairy and meats is an everyday occurrence for many of us. This unfortunately is not the reality for the 1 in 10 people in Halton Region battling food insecurity who don't know where their next meal is coming from.

As we reflect on 2017 we are reminded that the number of people in need is growing and Food for Life is seeing an increased number of families accessing services throughout the community. In 2017 Food for Life distributed the equivalent of 3.3 million meals into the community to support our neighbours struggling to put food on the table.

In 2017 Food for Life was named one of Canada's top 10 impact charities for the second consecutive year. This is due to amazing support from our incredible funders and donors such as the Halton Region, Oakville Community Foundation, Ontario Trillium Foundation, United Way, Sprott Foundation our corporate sponsors and private donors and our great volunteers and community partners.

- Halton Region provided funding for a new truck which increases Food for Life's capacity to distribute food across the Region.
- In partnership with the Oakville Community Foundation, Food for Life was able to expand programming for seniors in Oakville.
- Food for Life launched a resource in collaboration with community partners called www.finding-food.com, where anyone can access information on all food programs offered in Halton, Mississauga and Etobicoke.
- In partnership with the Burlington Food Bank hosted the annual Ride to Provide event which raised over $70,000 to support those in need within our community.
- Collected over 2,000 turkeys to provide a holiday dinner to families with the help of 200 volunteers and Fortinos.
- Expanded our agency partners and are proud to support over 95% of food agencies in the Halton Region.

Food for life has taken a strategic approach to reducing hunger by leading the Halton Food Security Alliance (HFSA), which brings a diverse group of stakeholders together to reduce food insecurity by 50% over the next 5 years. The HFSA collectively works towards a Halton in which no neighbour goes hungry and everyone has the opportunity to thrive.

Food for Life is poised for growth in the coming years. In the next three years the goal is to distribute 5 million pounds of food annually which equates to 5 million meals annually. With the continued support of the food donors, financial donors and volunteers Food for Life can build a resilient community free from hunger.

John is a senior living in Oakville. He lives alone in his subsidized apartment and is struggling to pay his bills with his Ontario Pension. He has worked all his life and at age 70 is seeking help from the local food banks for the first time. In 2017 Food for Life set up a program in his building, now John is able to get the extra food support he needs to get through the month. Not only has the program offered him fresh nutritious food, but he has made friends with other seniors in the building and now plays cards and bridge with them each week.

75% of program attendees said the program gave them an opportunity to socialize with others.

80% of program attendees said it contributed to their overall health and well being

Behind on bills and with an empty fridge Tammy called Food for Life for help. Her husband Tyler works at the local shopping mall, however his hours have been cut to part-time. Tammy and Tyler have two children and when they go shopping they buy Kraft Dinner and canned items to stretch their very tight grocery budget. She discovered a Food for Life program in her neighbourhood where she was able to access healthy items such as apples, bananas, granola bars and sandwich meats for her children's lunches. Tammy feels less stressed about what her children are eating and it has given her a bit of food budget relief.

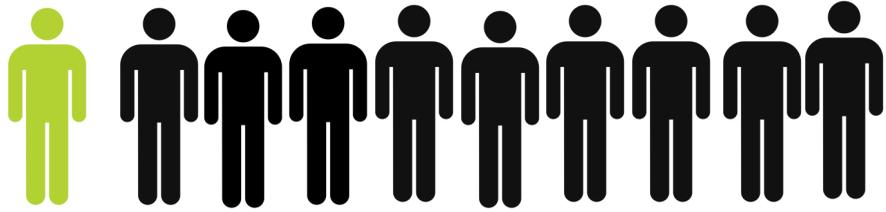

Ben is a teenager, lives at home and starts to notice that his mom who has a disability is not eating very well. When he asks her about this she mentions that she is finding it hard to keep the roof over their head, pay the bills, and buy nutritious groceries. Ben does some research using the www.finding-food.com website and realizes there is a FFL program in their neighbourhood that is within walking distance. The program runs in the evening, so he is able to attend the program. After attending the program for a few weeks, Ben's mom comes along one evening and is able to meet some of her neighbours. After a few months, she has now made connections in her community.

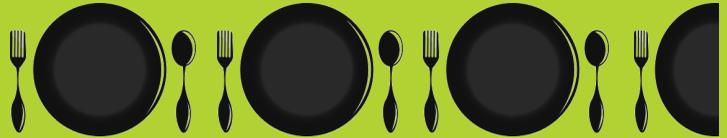

75% said it gave them an increased sense of belonging in their community

Food for Life is proud to be one of Canada's top 10 Charities. Charity Intelligence believes that the key questions donors should ask of a charity is how much impact it is having per dollar donation. "For every dollar I give, how many dollars' worth of social value are being created?"

This impact can be measured directly using what is known as social return on Investment (SROI), which is a ratio that measures the amount of value created per dollar donated.
